

MAC-CARE

The launch of Mac-Care high tech healthcare products

The recent SAFHE exhibition in Cape Town, became the launch pad to introduce our new MAC-CARE range of stainless-steel Hospital Sanitary Ware and Mortuary Equipment.

Medical Sanitary Ware:

Mac Brothers consulted with healthcare practitioners, engineers and architects and it became clear that a major re-engineering would be required to meet aspired infection and safety standards in surgical theaters and wards.

The new product ranges are produced using the very high tech equipment used by Mac Brothers to produce a leading brand in the catering industry. It required more than just a laser cutter to produce the new range. At Mac Brothers, we made use of two fibre optic lasers cutters and a very unique fully automated panel bender to mention but a few. The technology required in sheet metal production differs quite a lot from other stainless steel products where pressing technology is used to produce a required outcome. Some of the new innovations include:

New Surgeon Scrub unit with sloped edges for improved hygiene. Sensors were added to the scrub sink to make it hands free where required. (Elbow action mixers remain an option). All exposed areas are fully closed to prevent collection of waste

New slop hopper with closing grid was added to the range upon request by clients to improve hygiene.

We are committed to new developments and further new designs are work in progress
